NEXT SUNDAY TO BE DEDICATED TO THE LIBERTY LOAN CAMPAIGN

Pastors Promise Special Services in Keeping with the Movement

CHARLEROI'S SHARE $459,600

Next Sunday, October 21st, will be Patriotic Sunday in Charleroi. The pastors of the various churches in the community have been requested by Kerfoot W. Daly, chairman of the County Liberty Loan Committee to prepare their services along lines of a patriotic character, with a view of stimulating greater interest in the government's campaign to sell $5,000,000,000 of the new Liberty Loan bonds. It is the desire of the government that every family have one or more Liberty Bonds. This end can be accomplished if each family would only say they would save some of their money with that end in view. To bring the campaign more prominently before the people of the community the ministers of all the different denominations in town have been enlisted, and to date many of them have responded in the affirmative.

Ministers look upon the opportunity as a patriotic duty. They believe the churches can be a powerful factor in the campaign, and already a number have signified their willingness to prepare a program of service in keeping with the request.

The Charleroi community is expected to subscribe to $459,600 in Liberty Bonds. Large sum, isn't it? And yet if the people in this community who are able, will subscribe as their means justify the task is accomplished. Those who may not have the funds available, can learn of a plan by inquiring at their respective banks. Our financial institutions are greatly interested in the local movement and want to see Charleroi subscribe to its quota. It is possible for us to do so, but it will require unanimity of effort. Therefore let us get together.

Joseph Morovitch died at the home of his parents, Fallowfield township October 14. Funeral services were held this afternoon at one o'clock, interment in Calvary.

The A. L. Society of the Italian church are giving a dance this evening at the Italian Hall on Eighth street. 104-t1*

LOCAL DIVISION TO SELL BONDS

Charleroi Women Will Be Active in Liberty Loan
Campaign

TO SELL ONE-THIRD OF ISSUE

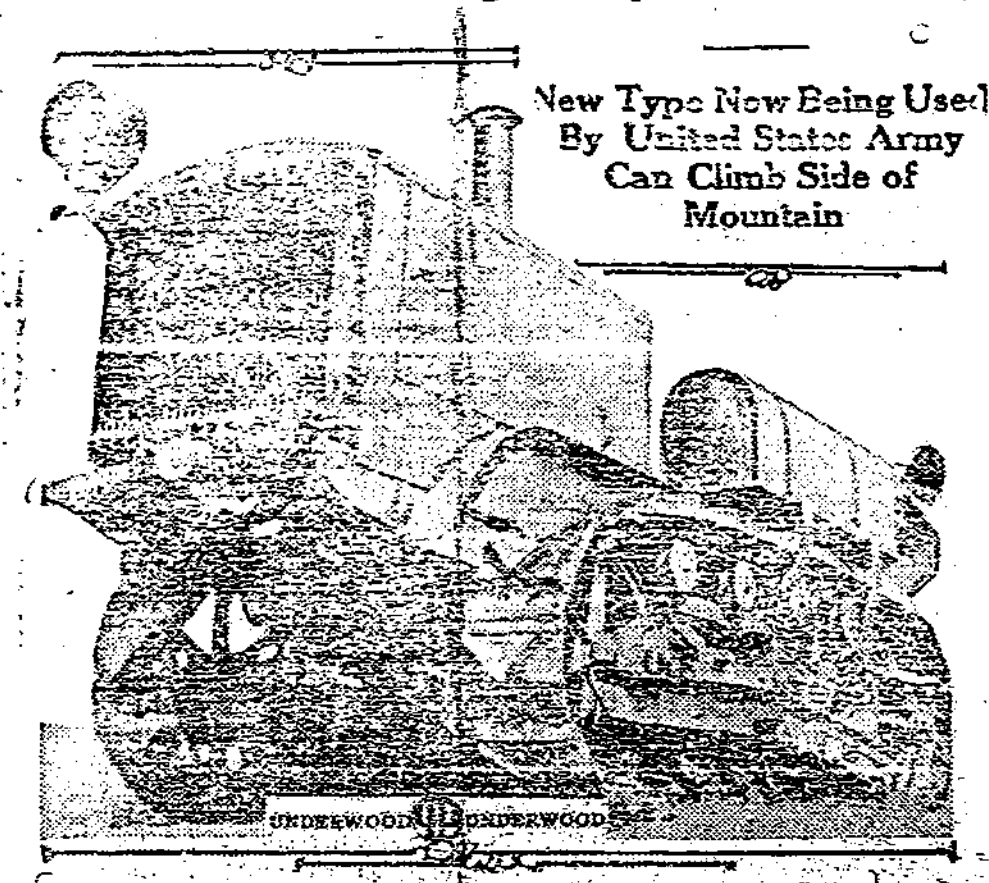

The Local Division of the Woman's Committee of the National Defense Council will take part in the sale of the new Liberty Bonds. Woman's week has been designated from the 15th to the 21st inclusive, and during that time the women of the country will endeavor to sell one-third of the total amount asked for by the government, which will be over $1,600,000,000. The Local Division has placed blanks at all of the Banks, at the various millinery stores, and at Berryman's. At these different places those in authority will be ready to explain any feature with which intending subscribers may not be clear. The members of the Division will make other solicitations, with a view of having a goodly number of bonds sold among the women of Charleroi.

Mrs. R. H. Rush who was elected chairman of the Local Division has found it impossible to accept the duties and responsibilities of the position and Mrs. H. W. Tweed, District Chairman will look after the local work temporarily until such times as a permanent chairman can be selected.

Powerful Motor Tractor Takes Place of Horse in Drawing Heavy Field Artillery

New Type Now Being Used
By United States Army
Can Climb Side of Mountain

No longer is the faithful horse called upon to share the burden of war in the drawing of heavy artillery. The motor tractor has come to take the place of the horse, and probably will never be supplanted except by some more powerful tractor than those now in vogue. The American army is equipped with hundreds of these tractors. The one shown in the accompanying picture is being used to draw men and heavy field batteries which are soon to be taken to Europe. These tractors have the pulling power of many horses and almost no grade is too steep for them. They could draw a heavy battery up the side of a mountain if necessary, and rough country offers no serious obstruction to their progress.

VETERANS KNOW COMFORT OF SMOKES

THE MAIL'S TOBACCO FUND

The Veteran Guards of Charleroi know the comfort of the Veteran Guards and their friends and those who have served in the 110th. It is certainly a splendid contribution to go across. Many local boys are serving in the 110th. It is a hard day's march, and now are anxious that the boys who are serving today shall want for none of these pleasures, which they were denied many times while serving in the '60's. Conditions of course were different in those days; communication with the front was slow, and more than that, the country was not as prosperous in those days as it is at the present time. Money was scarce, and the "shin-plasters," with which they were so familiar, did not have the purchasing power the dollar of today has. Due to changed conditions, however, it is possible to furnish the boys at the front with the smokes in large quantities, and give them that comfort they so eagerly look forward to. Thousands of communities throughout the country are engaged in this movement, and the aggregate promise to reach into the thousands of dollars; but we want Charleroi to have a large share in the contribution. By contributing 25 cents or more each citizen of the town contribute their "bit" to this splendid fund.

MEN FROM CAMP MEADE TO GO TO AUGUSTA

One thousand men will be sent from Camp Meade at Annapolis Junction to Camp Hancock, Augusta, Ga., to fill up some of the Pennsylvania regiments to war strength. All of the men to be sent south will be from Pennsylvania, none of whom, however, will be from Washington county.

WILL GO TO CAMP SHERMAN

October 27th has been tentatively fixed as the date for beginning the movement of colored men for the new National Army. Word to this effect was sent out from Harrisburg on Monday, having been advised by Washington that the above date has been fixed.

These leaflets are being distributed through the city and locked up. Government officials are concerned about the matter. The local police have been waiting a favorable time to meet with the young man Monday afternoon. Chief Albright went to the mine where he found Dean and placed him in the lockup and locked up. Chief Albright went to the mine where he found Dean and placed him in the lockup and locked up.

Colored men from Pennsylvania will be sent to Camp Meade at Annapolis Junction; Camp Lee at Petersburg and Camp Sherman at Chillicothe, Ohio. The quota from this district may be mobilized the same day as the white men, or a separate day may be selected, when all the colored draftees from Washington, Beaver and Greene counties will be sent forward to the cantonment. It is proposed to form a separate regiment at each of the cantonments for colored men, where they will be drilled as separate units. It is proposed to bring 3,000 colored men from Oklahoma to Camp Sherman, with whom the negroes from the counties of Washington, Beaver and Greene will join to make up this military unit.

The local exemption board is expecting orders daily to send the remaining 25 per cent of the quota of men to be furnished by the Fifth District and it may be they will be received this week by the Secretary. Once in hand the board will begin to send out notices to the men selected that they may prepare to enter the service.

DENIES FORMER STATEMENT

Isaac N. Dean, who is said to be a resident of Cemetery street, Monongahela, was arrested by Chief Albright Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock on a charge of being a "slacker."

Dean is employed as a night water-hauler at the Charleroi mine of the Youghiogheny Coal company, having begun work there last August. Dean has been talking among the men at the mine for some time saying he was over age but did not have to register last June. Chief Albright learning of the boasts of the young man went to see him on the 6th of October, and asked the young man to produce his registration card. Dean said it was at home. The Chief then requested the young man to report at the police station at 7 o'clock the same evening, bringing his card with him. Dean said he would be busy that evening but promised to bring the card to the Chief the following Sunday morning at 9 o'clock. At the appointed time Dean failed to show up and the local police have been waiting a favorable time to meet with the young man Monday afternoon. Chief Albright went to the mine where he found Dean and placed him in the lockup and locked up. Government officials are concerned about the matter. The local police have been waiting a favorable time to meet with the young man Monday afternoon. Chief Albright went to the mine where he found Dean and placed him in the lockup and locked up.

When Dean declared he was under the required age, Chief Albright flashed an employment application on the young man. In this application Dean set forth on the 6th day of last August, when making application for employment at the Charleroi mine that he was 22 years old. Continued on Page 4.

IT IS WORTH ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD MRS. HILL AVERS

"I seriously doubt if there is a person living who can recommend Tangle more highly than I do. I was a constant sufferer from indigestion, but Tangle quickly chased my troubles away."

The foregoing statement was made by Mrs. Amelia Hill, a well-known resident of Shillington, Pa., three miles from Reading.

"I had been a sufferer from indigestion for several years," continued Mrs. Hill, and it seemed as if I would never, never get any relief. I tried nearly every known remedy, and nothing seemed to suit my case. But Tangle certainly has, and that is the reason I can so highly recommend it."

"Before I took Tangle I had very little appetite. Sometimes I would just force myself to take something of a solid food nature and as soon as I ate it I would suffer from a choking sensation in my throat and severe pains in my abdomen."

"My food seemed to ferment quickly and to form a gas that caused heartburn and sickening sensation that would last for hours afterwards."

"My headaches were something awful. I shudder now when I think of them. My, but what a relief this Tangle has given me! The medicine is worth its weight in gold to me."

Tangle is now being sold here at Fipps Pharmacy.

Keep Moving.

Keep moving! That is life's secret all the way. When progress ceases, you begin to lose ground. When growth is at an end, decay begins. Do not let yourself think you know enough, even though your diploma is hanging framed upon the wall. Do not imagine you are good enough even though your acquaintances unite in speaking well of you. Keep moving! The day that shows no gain to your credit means loss.—Exchange.

Ancient Marine Homes.

The most interesting of the earlier habitations of man are the curious lake dwellings of the age of bronze. These were usually built on piles sunk into the bottom of lakes, some distance from the shore. Large trees were felled, the trunks of which were sharpened on one end and driven into the mud by mallets used in the hands of the builders, who worked from a raft.

Unframed Pictures.

To fasten unframed pictures on the wall so that the wind cannot tear them loose, take a narrow ribbon and brass tacks, and beginning at one corner, fasten the picture, then stretch the ribbon to the next corner of the picture, then another tack, and so on clear around the picture. Use ribbon to harmonize with the color in your picture and the effect will be pretty.

Great Little Men.

Size is no criterion of valor and ability. Napoleon was no giant. The duke of Luxembourg, the most famous captain of his time, was a dwarf. Mahone, the leader whom, during the closing scenes of the Confederacy, Lee most relied upon, except Gordon, was described as "a spry midget, full of Irish fire."—Buffalo Times.

Knots Not Interesting.

In one educational museum of Japan is a great frame of the most beautiful knots, tied in silken and golden thread. This had formed a part of Japan's exhibit at a certain world's fair. For six months this wonderful collection had hung upon the wall, and only two visitors had noticed and inquired about it.

Water Covers 80,000,000 Acres.

According to the scientists of the geological survey, there are in the neighborhood of 80,000,000 acres of good land in the United States which is more or less covered with water. This, at the lowest calculation, represents a country bigger than Great Britain and Ireland.

ASSISI IS REMARKABLE CITY

Shows How Influence of One Man
With an Idea Can Persist Through the Centuries.

A remarkable city is Assisi, showing how the influence of a man with an idea can persist through the centuries. It is seven hundred years and more since St. Francis lived and died here, and yet today Assisi is little besides the city of St. Francis. His name leads it whatever fame and importance it may have, and something of his kindly spirit seems to hang about it still.

Assisi is a bare little Italian hill town, built of dull stone, with narrow, winding rocky streets, looking out over one of the fairest prospects in all Italy. Here St. Francis was born of rich parents, here he led an idle, spendthrift youth, and here he was suddenly seized with the idea of universal brotherhood and the necessity for poverty. Here he founded the Franciscan order, paying that its distinctive sign should be "never to possess anything under the sun and to have no means of living save by begging."

He carried out his rule in strictest practice, living in a hut of reeds built where now stands the church of St. Mary of the Angels. He felt a great love for all things created, so that he hailed the sun as his brother and preached to the fishes. All of these incidents in his career and many others are set forth in noble frescoes by Giotto in the Franciscan church at Assisi.

In Assisi, too, is the tomb of St. Francis, in a little chapel of the Franciscan monastery. The tomb is surrounded by beautiful marbles and rich work in beaten bronze. The world has loved St. Francis, but apparently it has never understood him. Else it would not in all reverence have surrounded his vault with the rich luxury of beauty against which his whole life and all his teachings were but one great protest.

CITY IS VEILED IN SMOKE

In Manchester, Industrial Heart of England, Flaming Furnaces Roar
Night and Day.

Manchester is the industrial heart of England, the heart of the black, smoky North, which is to the pleasant London south like a foreign land. Under its veil of fog and smoke, the flaming furnaces of Manchester roar night and day, turning out steel and shells. The Manchester district is more impressive than anything of the kind America can show, because it is more concentrated. It is as if nine-tenths of the American steel business were gathered into a single Pennsylvania county.

Baedeker says that on a clear day you can see 600 giant factory stacks at one time from a hill near Manchester. This statement has long been suspected as the solitary bit of humor in the 87 ponderous volumes of Baedeker. It may be true, but it has never been confirmed, because there are no clear days in Manchester. When all the 600 stacks are pouring forth smoke and the fog steals down, it is dark at noon. On a good average day you can see for several blocks, and only a few electric lights are necessary. The trolleys will probably burn their headlights, but that is force of habit on the part of the motorman.

Colors of the Rainbow.

The colors of the rainbow vary according to their size, and the size differs according to the bigness of the raindrops. Large drops produce narrow rainbows and bright, clearly defined colors. The colors are generally as follows: When the raindrops are in the average one millimeter in diameter we see a violet, pale blue, bluish green, green, yellow, orange, pale red and deep red rainbow; when the drops average three-tenths millimeter, the rainbow is violet, pale blue, bluish green, green, yellow and orange. Drops of one-tenth millimeter produce the succession of a very pale violet, violet, whitish blue, whitish green, bluish yellow and pale yellow. Drops of one-twentieth millimeter (fog) give white tinted with violet, a very vivid white, a white tinted with yellow and a very pale yellow.

Origin of Order of Odd Fellows.

Details of the origin of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows are obscure and probably will always remain so. From incidents attending the extension of Freemasonry in England, America and elsewhere in the period between its arrival in 1717, and year 1740, and from similarity of emblems and to some extent mechanical arrangement of ceremonials some investigators believe that the order of Odd Fellows was an offshoot of Freemasonry. First recorded lodge was in England in 1745. Its membership consisted of mechanics and laborers. Provisions were made for comfort and recreation of members and practices of contributing to relief of needy and unfortunate brethren began early.—Exchange.

Allegation is Denied.

The familiar charge that artists who illustrate stories pay no attention to the text they illustrate is grossly untrue, declares the Kansas City Star. We know a young author who wrote a story in which a man with long whiskers got wound up in an electric fan. The illustrator might have ignored the fan altogether, but he didn't. The only detail he omitted was the whiskers, and the picture of the man with a smooth face tangled up in the fan was declared a masterpiece by the artist's family.

Hands and Fingers.

Nearly everything of money value in this world gets its worth from the human touch, according to Industrial Management magazine. The Midas hand of humanity turns whatever it fingers into its representative weight in gold. Diamonds gain their high value not only from rarity but because tons of the earth's soil have to be handled to find one little stone. Gold itself gets its worth not merely from scarcity but from the immense work in accumulating one ounce.

Coons and Turkeys.

They are hunting coons in Massachusetts and eating them. They are said to be a fine substitute for turkey—more than a substitute, better. That is all right—they can eat them. Our Pilgrim Fathers can eat all the coon they want. We will take a second helping to turkey, declares a writer in the Columbus State Journal. We try to imagine the eating of coon. We can't do it any more than we can think of eating cat. But hunting coons is different. Here is the process: Take an automobile. Put in guns, dogs, and a companion or two, and then, when far into the country and near a forest, unloose the dogs and send them into the woods. Soon they start to barking vigorously and there is a coon. The papers tell of one party of four starting out after dark, returning at midnight with nine coons. That couldn't be done in Ohio, which is not a primitive state, like Massachusetts. Our coon crop is gone. We are sorry. The coon is a fine animal for coon, but not for meat. John Alden and his merry men are welcome to it.

Gear Wheels Made of Cotton.

Gears are now being made of ordinary cotton which outwear those made from the finest steel. It seems incredible, but it is true, says Popular Science Monthly.

The very hardness of the metal gears causes the teeth surfaces to scrape over each other when they mesh, producing hideous screeches and groans. Everyone of these scrapings means a certain amount of wear.

Teeth made out of compressed cotton field. They are, therefore, noiseless. Compressed with the metal gears, they are indestructible. To make these fiber gears a large cylinder built up of cotton disks is compressed to but one-sixteenth of its former length!

Cold Comfort.

"I was arguing with a fellow about politics the other day and I'm blest if he didn't advise me to consult an alienist!" exclaimed the contentious man.

"Well! Well!"
"I suppose he thought that a fine piece of sarcasm?"
"Oh, I don't know. Maybe he meant it."

Always Unusual.

"How do you account for the remarkable weather?"
"Haven't tried. To be perfectly frank, I don't believe I recall more than a few months in the past ten or fifteen years when the weather wasn't being described as remarkable."

Going Up.

A device that enables a man to climb a steel cable to which it is attached by turning a bicycle pedal has been patented by a California inventor.

What's the Use?

A Broken Lot.

Little Gwennie felt it her duty to entertain a man who had been called in to do some carpenter work, and began by asking if he had a papa and mamma. He said yes. Then she asked if he had any brothers or any sisters. He replied by saying he had three half-brothers and three half-sisters. At last she asked him for a moment, intensely she said: "Are you the only one there was?"

Symbol of Identification.
One common symbol of service in both our army and navy has been accepted as distinctive by the French peasants. It is a little black and white paper tag that hangs by a piece of yellow string from the left hand breast pocket of the service shirt or the navy jacket. This identifies the bearer as possessor of a sack of a well known tobacco brand and has been interpreted as uniform equipment.

This photograph of Private T. H. Grant of First Illinois Infantry shows how the Army carries the "Mollies"—the familiar tag hanging from breast pocket.

A Sack of Living Matter.

As might be expected, it is among the inhabitants of the water that we find the simplest types of life. One of the polyps, the hydras, illustrates how simple these structures sometimes are. This little creature is nothing more than a sack of living matter, the inside coating attending to the work of digestion and the outside membrane doing the breathing. Yet the functions of the two membranes are so slightly specialized that the polyp may be turned inside out and the former stomach begins respiring, and the former breathing apparatus digests food.

Asia Minor Puzzle.

"Asia Minor" is a geographical term of vague extension. It puzzles anyone to say exactly where it leaves off. The name dates only from the fifth century. A. D., when Orosius used it evidently as a novelty. The Roman empire knew no Asia Minor. Indeed, the Roman province of "Asia" was actually smaller than this Lesser Asia. The alternative name Anatolia (land of the sunrise or east), which has found favor with the Turks, is equally indeterminate.

White Africans.

That race in Northern Africa known as the Berbers is white, and if they dressed like our own people and had the habits of Americans or Europeans they could easily pass for such. The Berbers are believed to be descendants of the white inhabitants of ancient Europe. They are Mohammedans. Blue eyes, fair hair, and rosy cheeks are quite common among them, and many of the women are strikingly handsome.

Dream Makes Author.

A well-known dream in which the facts are recalled for us that of R. L. Stevenson. This popular writer could dream when he lived, and could complete an unfinished dream of the previous night. According to Mr. James Payne, himself a famous author, Stevenson had a nightmare of a dual personality, and on that basis wrote the novel of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."—Tit-Bits.

The mind is more injured by prosperity than by adversity.

Brain Food.

The more brains a man has the more he is in need of brain food, though not necessarily the kind he would take in through his mouth. That is the best kind of food for the brain instead of the stomach. There isn't much use to take food for the brain we haven't got, anyway.—Exchange.

Highly Valued Pen.

One of the most valuable pens in the world, and one that has been much covered by curio hunters, is one owned in New York. It was made from a carved box in which George Washington, when a young man, kept the lenses of his surveying instruments, the wood of which formed the lid of the deck of the captain of the historic Mayflower.

Enjoyed the Frosting.

Dick was a guest at Diana's third birthday party. At first he was quiet and morose. Then, at the sight of ice cream and cake, he suddenly became cheerful. Burying his face in a huge piece of marshmallow cake, so that only his eyes could be distinguished, he shouted: "Say, kids, this is the frostingest cake I ever ate."

Sparrows Numerous.

The house sparrow, or the "avian rat," as he has been termed is responsible for one of the biggest leaks suffered by this country. Numbering one-fifth of the total bird population, it requires an enormous amount of good seeds, fruits, birds and young vegetables to feed the sparrow tribe.

Decay of Tin.

The most remarkable example of allotrophic disintegration of metals is perhaps that of tin. Investigation has shown that the disease can only occur in a temperature not exceeding 64.5 degrees Fahrenheit. Tin decay is, therefore, most prevalent in cold climates.

Eucalyptus Outgrows Cedar.

A cedar tree requires more than a century to grow large enough to yield a 30-foot telephone pole. The eucalyptus will attain a larger growth in 30 years, and its wood is quite as desirable.

ARREST GIRLS

That the sole citizens of the Monongahela Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The girls are said to have been inmates of the Institute for the Feeble-Minded at Polk, from which they escaped two days ago. The girls were taking exercise and ran away, boarding a freight train.

Davis, who happened to see the girls in a box car when it stopped at the Shire Oaks station, placed them under arrest and took them to Pittsburgh, placing them in the South Thirteenth police station. They will be held until the authorities at the institute can be communicated with. Helen Backus said she had been an inmate of the institute for 11 years, and her companion said she had been there 10 years.

WOMEN PLAN TO HELP LIBERTY LOAN

The women of Washington county are preparing to take part in the campaign of Women's Work of the Liberty Loan canvas. Monday 20 women of Washington met in the Community building and planned the work for week and many of them will be active in the canvass and as speakers. The women's committee sends out this appeal in behalf of the Liberty Loan.

Before the end of October each of us, man, woman and child, must help to show the world how true is the purpose to save the cause of liberty, freedom, honor, sacred our right to service to humanity, how true is love for our country.

"Let every woman stand the Liberty Loan in the front line of the October Ladies Home Journal and be ready to respond to the neighbor who will call upon you."

Mrs. L. S. Vowell who was in Charleroi last week is the director of the Liberty Loan campaign under the direction of the woman's committee of this county.

RECRUITS FOR COMPANY "A"

Additional enlistments for Company A of the 110th United States Infantry, to raise 100 men are progressing very nicely. Already six men have been sent to be examined while this morning five additional names had been obtained by 10 o'clock, among them Earl Gebel of Lock Four and Francis Corwin of Charleroi. These men will be sent to Pittsburgh in groups just as fast as they are obtained, and if they pass the medical examination will be sent to Baltimore to be sworn into the service of the United States.

The Twenty-eighth Division is undergoing intensive training preparatory to service abroad, and those who enlist in Company A can be assured being with the Division when it is ordered to the front. The Pennsylvania boys will be in Augusta until some time during the first of the coming year, when it is likely preparations will be made to send the troops into active service. Those enlisting from this locality at this time and wanting to serve in Company A can do so by making their desire known to James M. Gee, who has been appointed local recruiting officer. Any man who is between 18 and 47, who has not been examined and who has not been exempted is eligible.

THIEVES ARE HELD UNDER HEAVY BAIL

Two of the pickpockets arrested in Monongahela on Saturday afternoon last by Chief Parnicourt of that city were given another hearing this morning in that city before Alderman Elwood. All three of the men under arrest were taken before the Alderman, where Walter J. Brown a jeweler of Donora, identified Edward Moore, alias Al Miller and Terillie Gamourell, alias Ray, as the two men who on the 12th of October at the Black Diamond station of the Pittsburgh Railway company, robbed him of a 2-karat diamond stud. The other man, who gave his name as John Manion, was not recognized by Mr. Brown, but he is being held for his activities in Monongahela on Saturday. The two men were held in additional bail of $1,500 each and in default thereof were taken to Washington, where they will be held for action by the grand jury.

It is believed these three men are part of a thieving gang that has been operating in Monongahela, Charleroi, Donora and other towns in this vicinity, and their arrest is looked upon as a most important one. There are other members of the gang that are still at liberty and police are keeping vigilant watch that they may be able to pick them up before long.

However, he will be given full opportunity Wednesday evening to prove to the satisfaction of the Chief that he was not of the required age to register in which case he will be allowed his liberty. Otherwise he will be held and placed in the service of the United States Army.

WRITTEN BEFORE THE WAR

Impressive Fact in Nature Is Stillness and Quiet on Earth, Says Observatory Director E. L. Larkin.

One of the most impressive facts in nature is the stillness and quiet here on earth, writes Edgar Lucien Larkin, director of Mount Lowe observatory. Ancient roadways, thunders of pent-up potential of electricity, the terrific energy of heat, the compelling surfaces of millions of suns so many times larger and more energetic than our sun, itself 1,310,000 times larger than the earth, had to be hushed down into a stillness, quietude and silence to make ready for that amazing event, the creation of life on worlds, revolving around genial suns, giving out life-sustaining light and tempered heat.

None can imagine this perfect balance of titanic forces, for, with slight increase or decrease of the sun's radiant energy, all life on earth would vanish. How accurate the adjustment of mighty powers, that living things, where imminent death always lurks, could even appear and then survive. The mere item of the careful adjustment of the heat energy output of the sun for reception and use of the most delicate organisms on land and in the sea, this even balance is beyond imagination, and one of the marvels of the careers of the earth and man.

With the creation of life on earth, Mind Supreme appears, so far as man is able to see, rested and retired. There is no trace of the action of the Original Mind now on earth. The 603 laws of nature, their force, is all that can be detected in action now.

BUFFALO WAGES GAME FIGHT

Wounded Animal Gives Battle Royal to Huntsmen When He Is Poked in the Eye.

An exciting story is told of a party who went buffalo shooting in Zuni land recently. During the course of the holiday a buffalo was shot early one morning. The party saw the animal drop, and as it did not move, decided to deal with it later in the day. Returning in the afternoon they saw the buffalo from a distance, apparently in the same position as they left it. One of the hunters went out to the buffalo, and on reaching it poked a stick in its eye. This had the effect of restoring animation in the animal, which was only badly wounded, and a warm time thereupon ensued for the gentlemen in question.

The buffalo jumped up and tackled the hunter, who hung round the neck of the buffalo in the hope of tiring it out. When the other members of the party arrived the buffalo and his foe were whirling round at such a rate, that it was impossible to get a shot in without endangering the life of the latter. The buffalo tried to stamp the man to the ground with his forefeet, and at last lifted him with a terrible toss of his horns into a thorn-tree nearby. This gave the other men the chance of a shot, and the buffalo's career finally terminated.

Wood acquires a remarkable hardness and toughness when it is placed in tanks and covered with quicklime, which is gradually slaked with water.

Honey and the Sting. "An opportunity," said Uncle Eben, "is like a bee. One man kin foller it up an' find honey where another will only jes' git stung."
